

Reed Smith at NYAW: The evolving landscape of renewable energy disputes

The evolving landscape of renewable energy disputes, particularly through the lens of international arbitration, is being shaped by the rapid expansion of global investments in sustainable energy projects spanning wind, solar, offshore, and nuclear sectors.

As governments and private actors strive to meet ambitious climate targets, disputes frequently arise due to regulatory changes, subsidy reforms, and project delays – particularly in cross-border agreements.

As part of New York Arbitration Week (NYAW) 2024, Reed Smith is delighted to invite you to an in-person rapid-fire roundtable discussion exploring the challenges and opportunities within renewable energy disputes.

Our speakers will delve into strategies for navigating these complex disputes, which emerge at the intersection of shifting energy policies, investor expectations, and government actions
