(250 West 55th Street, New York, NY 10019)
(Simultaneous virtual participation will be arranged)

What unique challenges do American parties face when intending to mediate disputes with Asian counterparties? What strategies can American parties pursue to encourage Asian parties to agree to mediate? In this seminar, held jointly by Kim & Chang, Arnold & Porter, and the Singapore International Mediation Centre (SIMC), the panel will explore:

- Common differences in mediation culture between Western parties and Asian parties
- Trends in Asian companies' attitudes regarding mediation
- Specific experiences convincing reluctant Asian parties to mediate
- Specific experiences bridging the cultural divide in mediation
